OVERVIEW

James has a mixed practice of private law and public law proceedings relating to children. He acts for children through their Guardian and for parents or other carers. James has a strong interest in proceedings where Non-Accidental Injury is alleged or involving children with Special Educational Needs.

In May 2021 James was admitted to practise as an Australian lawyer by the Supreme Court of Victoria, Australia.

EXPERIENCE

Private Law Disputes

James has extensive experience in relocation cases and in proceedings where allegations of parental alienation are being made.

Public Law Proceedings

James acts in cases involving allegations of non-accidental injury to a child and other public law proceedings where he represents the child, through their Guardian, or a parent or other carer. He has experience in appeals to the Court of Appeal in public law proceedings including appeals against placement for adoption.

Direct Access

James welcomes direct access clients because he believes in providing the best possible service for clients at an affordable cost. In some cases, it may be possible to resolve your problem without going anywhere near the door of a court. But if the dispute continues, James has the advocacy skills to give you the best possible chance of securing the outcome you want. He works hard for his clients, preparing properly.

Special Education Needs

James has a special interest in cases involving children with social, developmental and learning needs, such as Asperger's syndrome and/or specific learning difficulties such as dyspraxia. James was an accredited tribunal representative of IPSEA (the Independent Panel for Special Education Advice) from 2004 to 2007.

TESTIMONIALS

"After two and half years of ongoing disputes concerning the arrangements for my children I felt that the problem was irresolvable and I was extremely stressed and despondent. I had also paid a considerable sum of money on solicitors' fees which had had no impact on my wife's intransigence.

I approached James as a direct access client, my wife having made an application to the court alleging emotional and mental abuse on my part towards my children.

I met James in conference and he immediately grasped the fundamentals of the situation and was able to direct me in my response by preparing a position statement for me and suggesting how the matter should be addressed in front of the Judge.

At the subsequent hearing James was able to negotiate an agreement with my wife which no one had been able to achieve before. The allegations were dismissed by the Judge due to James' advocacy and an order agreed which was far better than I had hoped for.

James has now given to my children through his skill as a negotiator and advocate a shared care arrangement that both of them had wanted and which will most certainly work in their best interest.

Without James' calm, intelligent and determined approach my children would still be caught up in a battle between my wife and I and restricted as to the amount and quality of time they now spend with me.

I cannot recommend James highly enough to those caught up in long protracted disputes." – Mr C (2016)

"Thank you for all of your help. You were absolutely brilliant today and it's all down to you that we got the result we wanted. I'll be forever grateful." – Ms S, the Respondent in a case about whether her children should divide their time between their separated parents or live with one of their parents and spend time with the other.

“I would strongly recommend James to anyone finding themselves in the Family Court with complex Child arrangement cases, including leave to remove applications. His calmness and reassurance in a time of distress was most important to me and the outcome for our children’s well-being could not have been better.” (2018)

Mr AE, in a case which turned on whether the mother should be allowed to take the children to live with her abroad. The Court refused the application for leave to remove and directed that the children should live with each of their parents.
